Documentary film from Switzerland. German with English subtitles. 38 minutes. Produced by Swiss Radio and Television (SRF) for the programme Einstein

Can we develop feelings for an artificial intelligence? And how would this affect our everyday conversations with a machine? SRF's science program «Einstein» is conducting a unique AI experiment: Five participants let an AI chatbot into their lives for three weeks. The question: Is AI any good yet as a flatmate, relationship partner or best friend?

Will it always be a relationship between master and servant, as with digital assistants? Or will AI chatbots invade our routines and turn the conversations into something that feels pretty natural? And what if an AI suddenly challenges or deceives us? Could that even happen?
