

Internship in the Field of Communications and Media

The Embassy of Switzerland is currently offering a full-time (40 hours per week) internship in the field of communications and media within the Communications and Public Diplomacy section for 6 months, from either: September 1, 2021 – February 28, 2022 or March 1, 2022 – August 31, 2022. The remuneration for this position is USD 2,700 per month (gross salary).

Contemporary diplomacy reaches out to a wide range of audiences far beyond governmental decision-makers. These audiences include individuals and representatives of public and private institutions in fields such as academia, advocacy, the arts, business, culture, development, education, human rights, international cooperation, the media, or science. A sustained dialogue with a broad array of stakeholders on topics of common interest and concern is an essential part of Swiss diplomacy worldwide.

Through the organization of and participation in public events on a variety of themes, the Embassy contributes to a better understanding of Switzerland's remarkable and often unique characteristics, including the country's cultural diversity and artistic, scientific and technological achievements, its political institutions and public policies, its economic and technological competitiveness, but also its commitment to human rights, peace, security and development world-wide. More importantly, it provides opportunities for Swiss and U.S. audiences to learn from each other's experiences and explore new possibilities of cooperation between both countries.

The intern will be involved in all activities of the Communications and Public Diplomacy section, including our multifaceted communications and media outreach.

Candidate should possess:

- a keen interest in international relations and public affairs;
- a thorough understanding of Switzerland's politics, economy, society, and culture and the desire to share this knowledge with the American public;
- a very good understanding of media, social media platforms and other communication channels with an affinity to communicate on various, mainly digital channels;
- excellent writing, editing, and formatting skills;
- the ability to work independently as well as in a dynamic team, plan and organize events, research and draft reports, social media posts and media releases;
- strong networking and communication skills and ability to use them in an intercultural setting.
- ideally: experience in media and social media monitoring

Candidate must:

- be a Swiss citizen or a permanent legal resident in Switzerland;
- possess excellent written and spoken communication skills in English;
- speak and write fluently German, French or Italian, with passive knowledge of at least one other official language;
- not have graduated more than one year before beginning internship;
- not have completed more than 12 months of cumulative internship experience in the Federal Administration since first graduating from a university or a university of applied sciences – including the 6 months of this internship in Washington.

All applicants must submit the following documents in PDF format – preferably as one document, not to exceed 5 MB:

- curriculum vitae (in English);
